

EFDC SCI consultation Q 5

Name	5.Are there any other ways that you think we could receive comments on planning policy consultations?
Martin Hall	No, I think the present method is perfectly adequate
Mr & Mrs Leng	no
K A Miller	reduce the number of questions. Split the document into separate booklets, simplify the questions and ask for that persons view with space enough for their reply. No tick boxes
Mrs K G Freeman	You should directly write to the people that live in the proposed development areas and clearly let them know what is being planned (ALREADY) to re (clarify?) and no TRICKS!! To pus us off the TRAIL of what has ALREADY been planned for us AGAINST our wishes.
Mr William Freeman	You should directly write to the people that live in the proposed development areas and CLEARLY let them know what is being planned so as to be clear!! and no TRICKS To put us off of the TRAIL of what is really planned !!!
Mrs Valerie Mavin	You should directly write to the people that live in the proposed development areas and clearly let them know what is being or been planned so as to be clear !! and no TRICKS To put us off of the trail of is really planned
Robert R G Day	Local opinions and councils are wrongly overridden by appeals to Bristol this is undemocratic
Nik O'Flynn	I think many people are unaware of the scale of the plans due to the very generalised leaflet. Community Choices I think the relevant section of the questionnaire (e.g pages on Waltham Abbey) should have been posted to everyone in that area (e.g. Waltham Abbey) with the provision that people could get the rest of the questionnaire if needed. I found it difficult to get the document and questionnaire as all workshops were between 5-9pm when I work.
Barbara Seal	not just by email . Relevant notice leaflet sent around houses. More details on exact details of area.
Leslie Richard Holliwell	No, the process seems thorough
Mr & Mrs Walker	By post and local survey in High Street
Chigwell Residents Action Group	By engaging 'plain English' expert advice. By conducting inclusive workshops to gain responses from the local populace. At the workshops which were held it was clear the forward planning team were not listening.

EFDC SCI consultation Q 5

Lesley Wagland Member of Chigwell Parish Council and of Chigwell Residents Association	BY adopting a 'bottom up' rather than 'top down' approach. By circulating door to door, one page official documents. By engaging 'plain English' expert advice.
Edie Bow (Chairman) Chigwell Residents Association	adopting a 'bottom up' rather than 'top down' approach
Mrs Joan Smith	Community 'drop in' sessions and better advertising of them
Mrs Val Evans Epping Upland Parish Council	So long as there are arrangements for : 1) those who suffer from disabilities and 2) written responses continue to be allowed until there is proper internet access in all areas- in some rural areas internet access is either limited or very poor where slow dial-up is still the only facility.
Mrs Lisa Berry & Mrs A McCarthy	not through parish council as should be an individual residents opinion. Leaflets were not descriptive and clear on what it was about
Chelmsford City Council	NO, the Draft SCI offers a range of ways for consultees to make comments
Friends of Epping Forest. Judith Adams	No
Mrs Valerie Loftis	I think the process is unsound because the communications process with residents of nearby districts has not been considered and financial concerns of say Harlow Council have prevented both Councils from consulting their residents in a fair inclusive manner ie. I don't think Harlow residents know that the Council will want to build 10,000 new homes using green belt land just over the borders of Harlow with the Government grant money mostly going to other district Councils such as Herts and Epping. This will make Harlow's infrastructure and services crumble whilst other districts help to remove their own problems to their outer fringes. Does Epping District or Herts Councils intend to building roads, school, parks and leisure facilities too? Probably not !!!

EFDC SCI consultation Q 5

Mrs Deborah Tonkiss, High Ongar Parish Council	Comments on planning policy consultations could be received via local newspapers, EFDC website, Facebook and Twitter. Environmental Agencies and Highways should be consulted routinely before planning is agreed.
Mr S A McGuinness	No
Paul Dunn	Not really - paper and electronic formats seem to have it covered along with walk in shows and walk in sessions
