

Save the Willingale Treasure!

A medieval gold ring has been found in the parish of Willingale and Epping Forest District Museum needs you to help us keep it in the district freely accessible for current and future generations to enjoy.

Please donate to support our campaign:

- Make a donation at the Museum

Epping Forest District Museum is launching an appeal to save a medieval gold ring found in the parish of Willingale before the item goes on sale on the open market.

It is the first medieval gem set ring to be found in the District and the decoration is of an extremely high standard and, to the best of our knowledge, unique.

If the funds are raised the ring will go on public display in the museum's newly renovated core gallery saving it for current and future residents to enjoy. If the funding is not raised, the ring may be sold on the open market and possibly therefore leave the UK permanently.
